

General Talks To CSC Cadets Sun.

Brig. Gen. Robert W. Burns told the 11 Colorado State College Air Force ROTC graduates Sunday that the challenge is present for those who can think in Air Force duty.

The general, assistant deputy chief of staff for operations, Air Force Command, said that the teacher preparation received at the college will place the newly-commissioned officers in good stead in service.

General Burns, a graduate of Mississippi State University, was a teacher for some time before entering the Air Force.

In the commissioning address, he said there are now four R's in a cadet's training, reading, 'riting, 'rithmetic, and ROTC.
